Burning Permit Granted

McGregor has received a permit from the Texas Air Control to burn brush and will now make a charge for hauling. The permit allows the city to burn brush one time each quarter. The city administration said the city has been working on this permit for ten months. Nothing but brush and leaves will be accepted for the burning area.

Electric Bills Snarled

The city of Hearne will reimburse one resident $1,381.58 for electric service overcharge, and will try to collect undercharges of $474.96 and $906.62 from two others after the matter was brought to light at a council meeting. The mixed up charges resulted from meters that were switched when the houses were built in 1972.

Police Chief Resigns

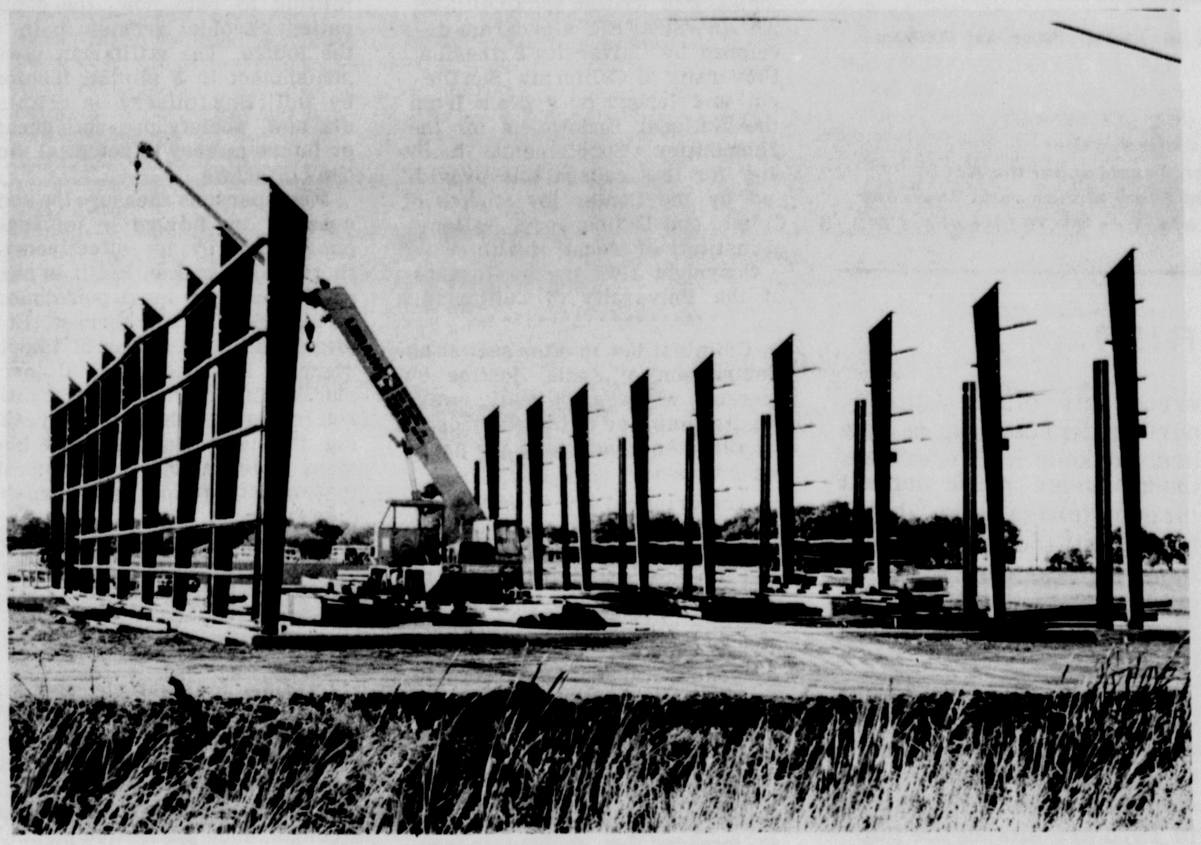
Rosebud's police chief, Rodney Blasingame, announced Tuesday that he has resigned. In a letter to the city manager, the chief cited the "long hours, relatively low pay and lack of employe benefits," He indicated that he has accepted more gainful employment outside of law enforcement.

Hospital District Voted

With over 2400 votes cast, two issues on the Burleson County Hospital District election were decided by 19 and 42 vote margins, one in favor and one against. The creation of the county-wide hospital district carried by vote of 1221 to 1202. The issuance of $1.5 million in bonds to build a new hospital was defeated 1188 to 1146.

Rockdale Grant OKed

Final approval for Rockdale's $250,000 federal Community Development Agency grant was received last week. The grant, which will apply only to southeast Rockdale and a small section of northeast Rockdale, will include money for street paving, sewer and drainage work, housing rehabilitation, a contingency fund and administration.



STEEL IS RISING over the foundation of Butler Weldments Corp. building in Cameron Industrial Park. The New Jersey firm is constructing a plant in Cameron which will produce welded products for industry.

Guilty Pleas Net Probation In District Court

Six cases were disposed of in District Court Sept. 23, with all six persons receiving probated sentences, according to a report from County Atty. John B. Henderson, Jr.

Arnold Mack Erwin of Rt. 3 Caldwell and Celestino Sanchez of Caldwell both pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated - subsequent offense and were assessed three-year sentences. Both sentences were probated with the men paying $150 fines and court costs.

Carolyn Hibbler of Marlin was assessed a three-year term in prison by Judge Don Humble after she pleaded guilty to the felony offense of obtaining possession of controlled substance by forgery. She was placed on supervised adult probation.

Sandra Kay Alcorn Tindle pleaded guilty to possession of a forged instrument and received a two-year sentence. She will be on supervised adult probation.

Also placed on probation was Louis Howard Wardlaw of Cameron, who pleaded guilty to burglary and was assessed a two-year prison term. Wardlaw will make restitution to the injured party in the amount of $65.

The six will be paying $15 per month supervisory fee to the Milam Probation Department.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

Board Denies Charter For Rockdale Bank

The State Banking Board in a 2-1 vote Wednesday afternoon denied application for a charter for a new bank in Rockdale. One of the negative votes was cast by State Treasurer Jesse James, who died early Thursday morning.

Senior Citizens Van

The Senior Citizens Van is now being dispatched through the Cameron Community Action Center. The number to call is 697-6689.

Senior citizens are asked to call the day before they need the transportation.

Bloodmobile

The Red Cross bloodmobile collected 64 pints of blood at its Wednesday drawing, which was below the quota again. Nine prospective donors were rejected.

New Sewer Project Enters Final Stage

Construction work is expected to start by Oct. 10 on the remaining sewer project in Alabama Town, which will complete the new system for an area that depended on septic tanks and outhouses.

The work is being done by the Community Development Agency, and when completed will replace about 33 outhouses and about 23 septic tanks, according to CDA director A. W. McCullin.

The project is in its third year, having started in 1975 as part of a federal program. Some $36,299 was spent the first year, $24,585 the second year, and the last segment of the project will cost about $11,000, McCullin estimated.

The current work represents about 20 percent of the project, with 80 percent already complete. It will furnish sewer service for residents who have never had any, and McCullin said some residents were ready to hook up before the pipe was ready.

He added that the sewer lines are being run up to property lines so residents can tie in without having to tear up the streets.

No Injuries Reported In Bus Mishap

A school bus-auto collision late Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Eighth and Polk resulted in some vehicle damage but no injury.

The bus was driven by Lloyd Rider and contained several students. It was traveling west on Eighth when it was struck by a car driven by Leon Howard of Cameron, traveling south on Polk. He was ticketed for failure to stop at the stop sign.

The bus was able to leave the scene after a buckled fender was pulled off a front tire, while the car received extensive front end damage.

Fire Ant Bait Is Available

Fire Ant bait will be distributed to Milam County landowners Monday October 3 and Monday October 10 from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. by personnel of the Texas Department of Agriculture at the Precinct 2 county barn on Highway #77 North in Cameron.

There will be no charges for the Mirex. Landowners will sign for the material and certify acreage to be treated.

October is an excellent time to treat for fire ants as the ants are storing food for winter months.

Buckholts Board Approves Tax Roll

Buckholts school trustees last week approved the 1977 tax roll which shows property valuations of $4,700,000 for the district. Tax rate is $1.60 per $100, based on 40 percent of market value.

Trustees also accepted an electric scoreboard donated by the Badger Booster Club, which is expected to be installed soon.

New Wells Reported In County

Good wells continue to be reported in Milam County, new leasing activity is reported, while new operators join those already in the fields.

The Milano area is taking on aspects of an oil field, as drilling activity steps up. Several new wells have been drilled that hit pay, in different formations.

Martin Oil & Gas brought in a well on a portion of the Mary Morgan 75-acre tract that hit oil at about 5000 feet. Flow the first day was measured at 500-700 barrels.

The new well is located approximately two miles east of Milano off Highway 79 and was drilled to the Buda Lime.

Another new discovery came in on the Joe Willingham 98-acre tract about a mile east of Milano. Drilled by Houston Petroleum, the 3200 -foot well shows a lot of promise in the Nachitoch formation.

Houston Petroleum has also logged a well on the Buher Ranch about four miles south of Milano. Gas was found in the Wilcox at about 2200 feet and oil at about 2350 feet in the Poth. The well is down to 6000 feet and shows several other good indications.

The Houston firm recently logged a well on the Roach 187-acre tract about six miles south of Milano. There are good indications of production in several places and one is now being brought in.

The J. D. Peeples well, drilled to 5000 feet in the Austin Chalk and brought in around the first part of August, continues to look good. So does the Rice Dennis, close to the Peeples, which is producing from the Georgetown. They are located about a mile and a half south of Milano

Just across the road from those two wells, location is being staked by B&B Drilling Co. & Associates of Milano on the Haddox unit.

And Caddo Oil Co. of Louisiana reportedly has bought leases on more than 20,000 acres in the county from H. H. Coffield of Rockdale.

Volunteers Fight Grassfire

A large grassfire which started on the railroad right of way near the Adams St. crossing in Cameron burned off several acres of pasture, brush and mesquite Thursday.

Firemen answered the first call at 2 p.m. fought the spreading fire for two hours, then were called back to the location at 6 p.m.

At 11:45 p.m. Wednesday, firemen were called to Rusk and Henderson where a small frame residence was burning. The house belonged to Augustine Bailey who was not at home when the fire broke out.

Firemen reported that the house was engulfed in flames when they arrived, and cause of the blaze was unknown.

4-H WEEK, Oct. 3-8, is proclaimed by County Judge O. B. Harden as 4-H'ers look on.

Mature Or Vanish...

Death ended what state treasurer Jesse James showed for 36 years in the Texas money post couldn't be ended at the polls.

The native Milam Countian died of a heart attack just after midnight Wednesday. He was 73. He had been a state representative from Milam County 1933-37, went to work for state treasurer Charles Lockhart in 1937 and was appointed to the top post when Lockhart resigned in 1941.

Despite numerous challenges through those years, James was re-elected, often due to the familiarity of his name, nine times. And despite a leg amputation, he was telling people he was going to run again next year, early on challenged by Rep. John Bigham, Democrat of Temple, and a Republican representative from Houston.

He simply ran things to suit his command by tenure and apparent tacit approval of state banks. He drew criticism for keeping tens of millions of state funds in non-interest-bearing accounts for years, until he reversed the policy under pressure this summer. Time or interest-bearing bank time deposits in Texas funds increased by $200 millions to about $2 billions.

Mr. James was of the old school of politician, who operated his office with expert understanding of how best to keep it. The state's banks under prior deposit circumstances were saying little until the state auditor inquired into why so much public money was interest free in hundreds of Texas banks.

His death, the retirement of senior congressmen including Cong. W. R. Poage next year, the defeat of Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler in 1970 are among the political signs of the emerging metro-Texas, beyond the enormous national and international influence accrued by Former Senate Majority Leader and President Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, both now deceased.

Mr. James' style had a certain stability to it. Certain things had priority in the Texas of his prime years, the years in which Johnson and Rayburn all but ran both houses of Congress and the White House.

But the forces of that era, like Mr. James' heart, gave out. The Texas high rollers are giving way to public disenchantment, corporate oil and industry, big government and labor.

It is inevitable as Texas matures into one of the great regions of the Western World that its self-sustaining mythology mature or vanish.

Letters TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Luecke:

The following was written by John P. Callan, M.D. Hartford, Conn. for his special magazine Good Health - The Consumer Health Monthly.

A Nursing Home Resident's Bill of Rights

I am a resident of a nursing home. I am a Human Being, who, through my contribution to my society during my productive years, helped to mold a decent place in life for my generation and the generation that followed me.

I like to be treated with respect and dignity just as I have always tried to treat others.

I am and have been "Somebody" over the years, to many people, such as: My Sweetheart, MY Wife, My Husband, My Father, My Mother, My Daughter, My Sons, My many Friends.

If the waning years have been unkind to me, please don't blame me if I don't see too well, I don't hear too well, I spill my food, I am incontinent, I need help often, I am cranky (though I don't want to be) I could be your: Mother, Father, Grandmother, Grandfather.

Someday you may be a "Me."

A little kindness, a soft word, some acknowledgement by you that I am still a person, not a "thing." This is all I ask. Is it too much?

I think this says so much.

Sincerely,
Sandra Corbin

The Philosophy Of Criminal Law

By Gertrude Ezorsky

Editor's Note: This is the seventh of 15 articles in a series exploring "Crime and Justice in America." In this article, Gertrude Ezorsky, Professor of Philosophy at Brooklyn College and the Graduate School of the City University of New York, discusses the nature of criminal law and the ethics of punishment. This series was written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program developed by University Extension, University of California, San Diego, and funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Supplemental funding for this course was provided by the Center for Studies of Crime and Delinquency, National Institute of Mental Health.

Criminal law is often seen as an instrument of social justice by persons who are not really aware of its limits or of the philosophical disputes concerning its proper purpose.

The criminal law is only a part of a broader system of legal justice. When a worker is injured on the job, the civil law may require that the employer compensate the worker. But when individuals commit "crimes" -- e.g., assault, arson, or murder -- they are liable also to the penalty of imprisonment.

Imprisonment of the convicted lawbreaker symbolizes moral condemnation by society of the crime. Such punitive treatment is intended not merely to confine, but also to cast the criminal so confined into disgrace. Hence, offenders who do not deserve them -- for example -- the insane or children, are usually not condemned as criminals but excused from punishment.

Criminal law, say some philosophers, contributes to the moral conscience of humanity. The moral denunciation expressed by imprisonment presumably deepens our awareness that acts such as murder, arson, or kidnappings are morally reprehensible.

But, critics claim, criminal law induces an opposite effect. It encourages feelings of vengeance and in places of imprisonment -- outside of society-- brutality is at home. Moreover, our law is not even-handed. An innocent defendant, falsely accused, is, if unable to pay for skilled counsel, more likely to be convicted.

LEGISLATING MORALITY

Should all acts believed immoral by the community be prohibited, as crimes, by law? Remember that in the past, witchcraft was believed immoral by some communities, and punished -- dreadfully -- by law, as a crime.

Today, criminal law lags behind changing moral attitudes, especially in such matters as sex and drug-taking. In many states, most forms of gambling are still a criminal offense.

Should the law -- like a parent--coerce an individual, for his or her own good? Some state laws, for example, require a motorcyclist to wear a helmet. But the attorney general of New Mexico dissented from such "legal paternalism" by stating that a bareheaded cyclist may injure himself but not "his fellow man."

Or, as the 19th-Century philosopher John Stuart Mill declared, law may coerce a person "to prevent harm to others." But, "over himself, the individual is sovereign." Mill would insist that "victimless crimes" -- for example, gambling, homosexual acts, and drug-taking -- are private matters, that is, "not the law's business."

But is it true that cyclists who refuse helmets can only hurt themselves? If injured, they -- like the motorists who disdain seat belts -- may cause suffering to their families, or need hospital care at public expense.

Similary, one's use of hair sprays may hurt others if such sprays contaminate the atmosphere. Should their use, therefore, be made a criminal act? There may be far fewer private matters in our society than are dreamt of in Mill's philosophy.

THE UTILITARIANS AND DETERRENCE

According to the utilitarian philosopher Jeremy Bentham, the criminal law, like all human institutions, should be fashioned to yield "the greatest happiness" -- or the least unhappiness -- for the community. The threat of punishment, utilitarians hope, would deter a rational person tempted to break the law. Hence that threat reduces the misery and insecurity wrought by crime.

A utilitarian, appraising the value of legal punishment, is like an individual contemplating a painful dental procedure. By submitting to pain now, the dental patient avoids greater pain in the future. The utilitarian views punishment in a similar fashion; by inflicting misery on criminals now, society prevents greater future misery to potential victims of crime.

Many persons measure the success -- or failure -- of legal punishment by its effectiveness in reducing crime. But it is hard to tell whether legal punishment is effective as a deterrent. How often does the threat of imprisonment stop the criminal (once punished), or the ordinary citizen (never punished), from breaking the law? Do you know how many crimes you would commit in a society without legal punishment?

Even if punishment accomplished the deterrent task assigned by utilitarians, critics claim that penalties devised by utilitarians might still not achieve justice.

Imagine, for example, that six months of preventive detention effectively deterred many 18-year-old high-school dropouts from future crime. Indeed, by comparison with other crime control methods, such preventive punishment minimized social costs most effectively. On a cost-benefit basis, the utilitarian would ope for preventive detention.

But most of these 18-year-olds never committed a crime. They do not deserve to be punished.

Thus the utilitarian philosopher is committed to undeserved punishment -- sure an injustice. There is a considerable moral difference between an individual voluntarily deciding to ends e pain at the dentist, and society -- through coercion -- deciding to punish innocent persons for future benefits.

Perhaps this preventive detention example seems far-fetched. But it should be remembered that our society has engaged in massive preventive detention, for example, the internment during World War II of innocent Americans whose only "crime" was their Japanese ancestry. Surely they did not deserve to be punished, either.

RETRIBUTIVISTS AND JUSTICE

Retributivist philosophers such as Immanuel Kant, Georg Hegel and Francis Bradley, find the utilitarian perspective on punishment morally unacceptable. According to Kant's principle of humanity, a person should never be used merely as a means to an end.

Punishment, declares the retributivist, should therefore never be inflicted for the welfare of the community.

Criminals should be punished because they deserve it, and for no other reason.

Some critics see retributive punishment as vengeance -- an uncivilized response. But for a retributivist philosopher, punishment is administered not to take vengeance but to balance the scales of justice. Even the punished criminal, claims Kant, knows in his heart that justice has been done.

On some occasions, most of us think like retributivists. Recall the Nazi War criminals convicted at Nuremberg. Suppose that punishing them did not prevent similar crimes, or indeed, do any future good for society. Should they have been excused from punishment? Many would, in this case, join with the retributivist: punish them because they deserve it.

But should ordinary offenders be punished, just because they deserve it? Suppose, just for the sake of argement, it were proven that punishment did not really reduce the extent of crime. (Any temporary crime reduction accomplished by isolating offenders in prison was canceled by the tendency of former criminals -- unemployable because of their records -- to commit more crimes.) In that case, I suggest that society has no moral obligation to pay for penal institutions.

Why support a prison instead of a hospital, unless prisons, like hospitals, are necessary to prevent human misery?

Or suppose an alternative to punishment, for example vocational therapy, were proven less costly and more effective in preventing crime. Surely, opting for the atlernative makes good moral sense.

Let us grant that retributivists were right when they faulted utilitarians for flouting Kant's principle of humanity. Criminal punishment, if morally acceptable, should surely be deserved.

But the utilitarians were not altogether wrong. Criminal punishment, if morally acceptable, should also show itself capable in the enterprise of minimizing human pain.

In The Herald Of.....

OCTOBER 3, 1895

Locals - We always take time to say Cameron grows. Business in Cameron is better than usual at this season of the year. Cotton will go to ten cents per pound before the end of the season. Mr. E. Sanders is building a handsome residence in north Cameron. A cold norther reached us last Sunday morning at about 1 o'clock, and fire was agreeable for several days.

Robert McLane sold two carloads of goods last Tuesday, and received as many more yesterday. He is making prices on staples that keep them moving and invites the public at large to call and see him. He is going along upon the platform of quick and large sales, small profits on all.

OCTOBER 3, 1901

Young Emory Rogers, charged with killing Doc Bankston some days ago, surrendered to officers this week and had his examining trial before Justice Trice Thweatt in Cameron last Tuesday. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $7500 which he promptly gave. Circumstances were more favorable to the defendant than published reports indicated.

Col. Ike Looney of Burlington was in the city today. He said he had ginned 1500 bales of cotton this season already and that the farmers were not selling.

John T. Arnold, John Bryant and Pen Wolf went up to Moody Friday to see the Cameron boys play better ball.

OCTOBER 2, 1919

A mass meeting of the city of Cameron was held in the district courtroom last Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of outlining a cleanup campaign for the protection of public health. Dr. W. C. Goddard, state health officer, has sent out repeated warning that we may expect another epidemic of influenza this fall and winter and any preventative measures that can be taken to ward off this dreaded disease should command the attention of everyone.

Mrs. W. O. Triggs, who goes about doing good, extended a loving little courtesy to her mother, Mrs. Ida Avriett, last Thursday evening in honor of the anniversary of her natal day. The affair was arranged as a pleasant surprise for the mother, who had been invited in a most ordinary way to take tea with her daughter.

Milam County improved land was selling from $45 to $140 an acre.

OCTOBER 4, 1934

The funeral of Martha Ann, 11 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Koenig of Buckholts, was held Tuesday afternoon. Little Martha Ann was accidentally scalded with a pot of boiling coffee Friday night at 8 o'clock while sitting on the dining room floor when the handle of the coffee pot broke off as it was being taken in to the dining room table. She was immediately taken to Cameron Hospital for aid, and grew worse and died Monday morning October 1st at 4 o' clock.

The Cameron Theatre was showing "Little Miss Marker," with Shirley Temple and Adolphe Menjou and "Two Gun Man," starring Ken Maynard.

C. N. Green and son advertised Coopers Best Coffee at 84 cents for a 3 lb. can and 29 cents for 1 lb., picnic ham at 18 cents a pound, a gallon of catsup for 89 cents, 48 lbs of flour for $1.90, and offered to pay you 25 cents in trade for your eggs.

Cotton's Roller Skating Rink has been opened on the Waco Road at the Buckhorn service station. Cotton Bryan, owner of the place, has purchased good equipment. The rink will be open each night and on Saturday afternoons.

Mayor Proclaims Special Week

Cameron Mayor Lawrence Zotz has proclaimed the week of Oct. 2 as "Respect Life Week."

St. Edward Hospital joins all Catholic health care facilities of the nation in working toward some major goals: reverence for life at all stages, respect for rights of the unborn and for the right to die in peace and harmony.

The doctors and staff of St. Edward work together in treating the "whole" person, including his spiritual and physical needs.

Calvert News

The Calvert Lions Club is currently selling chances on a 17" RCA color television set. Tickets are $1 each and may be purchased from any Lions Club member. The television set may be seen on display at the Calvert football games, and members are there to sell tickets. Ray Redding is president of the organization.

The Calvert High School composit squadron of the Civil Air Patrol is collecting old newspapers and aluminum cans to be sold at recycling centers in an effort to raise funds. The squadron is in need of a single sideband radio for use in communicating with other CAP units. Capt. Bertha Hanhart, squadron commander, said that those who would like to donate newspapers or cans may contact her or any CAP members. A once a week pick up of these items is planned for Tuesday afternoon.

Mildred Stewart attended the wedding of her daughter, Sarah, to Charles Frey in Angleton Sunday September 25. About 35 guests attended the lovely homestyle wedding and reception. Brian and Amanda, the bride's children, and Paul and Chris, the groom's sons, participated in the ceremony.

Sam Tucker suffered arm lacerations when his pickup truck was heavily damaged in a collision on Highway 6 south of Calvert midmorning, Sept. 29.

Sixth grade students of Fred Rector, social studies teacher at Calvert Elementary School, are beginning an indepth study of Calvert. The unit began with a tour of downtown Calvert, including the antique shops Friday, Sept. 30. Plans for the unit will include a scale model of Calvert. This is a project similar to the one undertaken by students from Texas A&M who spent time in last summer's heat measuring and studying Calvert.

Students of Julie Betty in the kindergarten class of Calvert's Spigner Elementary School were treated to an exciting learning experience when the Calvert fire truck was brought to school. The children were shown the hoses and axes, the red lights, and were treated to a blast of the siren. The visit came during the study of community helpers.

Yoe Volleyballers Win Consolation Trophy

The Cameron varsity girls' volleyball team won four out of five matches last week end at the Del Valle tournament to win the consolation trophy.

The tournament consisted of 16 teams who were mostly 3A and 4A schools and provided tough competition.

The only match the Yoe girls lost was their first one to the tournament host, Dell Valle. The match went three games with the Yoe girls winning the first game 15-6.

Del Valle came back with some strong serves to win the second game 15-3. Time ran out in the final game with Del Valle leading 14-12 and they won the match. This put the Cameron team in the consolation bracket.

The Yoe girls went on to defeat Waco High 16-14 and 15-2 Saturday morning they faced Waco Jefferson - Moore and defeated them 15-3 and 15-7.

In the semi-finals match the Cameron girls defeated Bastrop 15-8 and 15-12. This win put Cameron in the consolation finals against a fine team from 4A Austin Travis. Again, the Yoe girls were victors by scores of 15-11, 11-15, and 15-5.

Besides bringing home the consolation trophy, Cameron also received two All-Tourney awards. Pam Kimbrel and Evelyn Pittmon were given the honors. Both of the girls turned in outstanding performances throughout the tourney with excellent spiking and Pam was high point server with 45 points.

The tournament wins boost the varsity record to 12 wins with only three defeats as they prepare for district competition against Hearne on Tuesday, Oct. 4 at Yoe High gym with the JV game starting at 5 p.m. and the varsity game following.

Steamer Throws Bombs, But Tigers Ring Bell

A last-second on-side kick narrowly escaped Yoeman control Friday night, but the apparently reconciled Rockdale Tigers rang up two TDs, a field goal and the Bell, 17-12.

Yoe Quarterback Wayne Steamer discovered the long pass in hitting wingback Curtis Wise for a 48-yard TD toss early in the fourth quarter and medium range in hitting splitend Roderick Kelly from 14 yards out for another score, only 11 seconds left.

Both PAT tries for 2 points failed and the 17-point Tiger edge kept the Bell ringing in Rockdale for another year. It ended 17-12.

After absorbing a 58-yard thrust in the first Yoe series of downs, the Tigers picked up a second-quarter Dean Lewis fumble at the Yoe 33, then loosed halfback Don Wesley 22 yards on a quick thrust for the first Tiger score. The PAT was good and Rockdale went ahead to stay, 7-0.

Second Tiger score came in the third quarter when they took the second-half kickoff and in 10 plays drove 80 yards. Quarterback Scott Sparks went 19 yards on a keeper, then set up a halfback toss with a handoff to Jim Morton who threw 28 yards to Tiger Billy Light going for the endzone. Randy Leech kicked his second PAT, putting the Tigers ahead, 14-0.

Tiger halfback Wesley turned in two more sprints of 24 and 16 yards which carried the Tigers to the Yoe 3, where Leech kicked for 3 and his third score of the night. Rockdale 17, Cameron 0.

For the Yoemen, it was a first and fourth quarter offensive night. Halfback David Rosemond keyed the first-quarter drive with 10 carries in 13 plays, sending the Yoemen to the Tiger 10 , where the Tigers held.

It was also a difference in backfield size. Both Rosemond and Lewis were chopped down by the hefty likes of Kerry Locklin, Lewis Stewart, Leech and Davidson.

Steamer went to the long pass in the second quarter, sparking the Yoe offense with intermittent keepers and a vastly improved throwing arm.

In fact, Steamer hit Wise, Ronald Cobb and Kelley with a touch for the long bomb. Wise twice cleared the Tiger secondary to chase 40-yard Steamer tosses which were on target, and the second one good for a touchdown.

Passing yardage for the Yoemen kept game statistics almost even. Steamer hit his receivers six times for 144 yards, two touchdowns and two tosses just out of reach.

He ran for more than 60 yards, getting a better night than either speedster Rosemond or Lewis.

Wesley and Locklin led a powerful Rockdale ground game which consumed more than 250 yards, while the Yoemen garnered about 150 yards.

While the Tigers capitalized on fumble exchanges, and only one for the Yoemen, in the secdon and third quarters, the Yoemen defense held on in these middle periods.

The Battle of the Bell went for the 10th time to Rockdale, which won it and the Texas AA football championship last year. Cameron has won 13 times in this "Matchless Milam" series.

Cohesion on the Rockdale team was complete until the final minutes, when Steamer started hitting the big pass plays. The Tigers had lost two earlier games in the closing minutes or even seconds.

The final Yoe on-side kick seemed to go to Cameron, but control went to the receiving Tigers. It was an offensive night of football, the middle quarters and the score won by Rockdale, the first and fourth periods dominated by the Yoe offense.

Cameron defense standouts included Ray Riley, Stephen Hollas and Jim Zalesky. Yoeman Dutch Short was injured during the game and taken to hospital by ambulance.

Axtell Blanks Milano, 28-0

Axtell's Longhorns scored in every quarter Friday night to blank the Milano Eagles in a non-district game, 28-0 at Milano.

Axtell's Tony Mullins ran 6 yards in the last 13 seconds to mark the Longhorns final touchdown. He had 117 yards for the night while the Longhorn's Van Hughes went for almost 100 yards.

Johnny Vega and Greg Nelson played the best defensive game for the Eagles, which proved to be a role for Milano all evening.

Axtell scored twice in the third quarter when Van Hughes hit Trey Smith with a 42-yard pass, followed by a Hughes plunge from the one for the second tally of the period.

Axtell's Pete Miller went 33 yards on a punt return to the Milano 12 and Hughes went in from the 4.

The game was Axtell's fifth straight win and Milano's fourth consecutive loss.

MR. AND MRS. WATKINS

Perkins-Watkins Unite In Double Ring Ceremony

Leslie Janette Perkins of Fairfield became the bride of Richard Andrew Watkins of Cameron in a candlelight double-ring ceremony Saturday evening September 17 at the First United Methodist Church in Cameron.

The bride is the daughter of of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart J. Perkins of Fairfield. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Betty Sue Watkins of Rockdale and William A. Watkins of Cameron.

The Rev. Dan Jones of Fairfield performed the ceremony. Ladis Marek, Jr. provided organ music and the soloist was Mrs. T. D. Corley.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a formal A-line quina gown. Venise lace on english net trimmed the molded empire bodice, high victorian neckline and long slim sleeves. Venise lace trimmed the full chapel train complimented by a walking length tiered English illusion veil edged in lace. The bride carried a bouquet of wedding orchids and carried her great, great grand - mother white Bible.

Maid of honor was Miss Cindy Clark of Austin and bridesmaids were Miss Pam Watkins, sister of the bridegroom of Rockdale, Mrs. Joe Trdy of Belton, Mrs. Andrew B. Phillips of Odessa, Mrs. Jimmy Bailey of Fulshear, Miss Laura Perkins and Miss Nancy Perkins of Fairfield, all sisters of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore strawberry colored quiana gowns with sheer chiffon shawls. Each bridesmaid carried a long stemmed off white rose.

Best man was Steve Kirk of Houston. Groomsmen were Joe Vaculin, Dan Foster, Mike Rogers, Donnie Tucker and Richard Cummings all of Cameron, and Jimmy Bailey, brother-in-law of the bride of Fusshear. Ushers were Tommy Barton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Scott Mitchan, both of Cameron, Andrew B. Phillips, brother-in-law of the bride and Glenn Roesler, cousin of the bridegroom of Buckholts.

The reception was held at the First United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall following the wedding.

Mrs. Mike Gallier, cousin of the bride of Beaumont, registered guests.

The bride's table was covered in an all white satin skirt with white overlace. The white fourtiered wedding cake was accented with three shades of pink sugar roses and was topped with three white lace bells. Punch, nuts, finger sandwiches and mints were served from a silver service. The brides' table centerpiece was carnations in shades of pink.

Serving at the brides table were Brenda Burnett, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Dan Foster and Mrs. Mike Rogers all of Cameron and Mrs. Larry McGinn of Fairfield.

Mrs. Tommy Barton, sister of the bridegroom, of Cameron served at the grooms table. The table was in beige and brown satin floor length cloth. The grooms cake was strawberry with strawberry icing accented with a cluster of grapes. Nuts, mints and finger sandwiches were served on gold services.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of C. H. Yoe High and a 1977 graduate of Navarro Colllege Vocational Nursing School in Corsicana. The groom is a 1972 graduate of C. H. Yoe High and is employed at Milam Grain Company in Cameron.

After a wedding trip to Louisiana, the couple will make their home in Cameron.

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot express the many acts of friendship shown to us during the loss of my husband and daddy.
There is just not enough ways we can say thank you to Dr. Weed, Dr. Young, andDr. Seldon and the staff of Richard Memorial Hospital who worked so hard with our husband and daddy. Also to Rev. Helsley who delivered such a beautiful sermon and to Mrs. Corley who sang and the staff of Marek -Burns-Laywell funeral home and to the many friends and relatives who sent food and flowers. And we also want to thank the Pall Bearers and men who helped at the cemetery and the ladies who helped with the food.
May God Bless each and everyone of you.
The Robert Ottmer Family

CARD OF THANKS

We want to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy extended to us at the loss of our loved one. We wish to thank those who sent food and flowers and cards, all were very much appreciated Also out thanks to Marek-Burns-Laywell Staff for their services which was so thoughtful and heartwarming.

UNUSUAL AND DELIGHTFUL

An unusual and delightful piano composition was created by Joseph Schillinger. Some have likened it to the works of Handel, Bach or Purcell. It was composed by plotting the price fluctuations of various wholesale commodities on a piece of graph paper and assigning a proportionate value in musical intervals to each square.

* * *

An unusual and delightful book (that should appeal to the learned yet young at heart) is Winnie Ille Pu, A. A. Milne's classic about Winnie the Poo translated into Latin.

* * *

An unusual and delightful new way to create great drinks is now possible. Most people think of two types of rum, light and dark. Light is versatile and can be used any place. Dark is usually used in tropical drinks. The makers of Appleton Jamaica Rums remind us there is a third type, gold: more flavorful than white, less pungent than dark. A rum that can be truly enjoyed on its own.

GAUSE NOTES

By Mrs. Wanda Lee

Remember the 4-H bake sale Saturday morning at Coats Grocery. Then Saturday night Oct. 15 beginning at 7:30 remember to attend the 4-H talent show at the Community Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cox, Jr. of Austin recently spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Todd and other relatives.

Mrs. Valarie Alford spent last week end in Houston with relatives. She went especially at this time to be with her mother, Mrs. Tuma, who underwent eye surgery on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Lange spent several days last week in West Columbia with Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lange and Paula.

Funeral services were held in Rockdale Saturday morning at 10 a.m. for Mrs. Marr, the mother of Mrs. Roger (Lessie) Kingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bland spent a couple of days this past week in Temple where Mr. Bland had a medical checkup at Scott and White Hospital. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Marion Bland of Chilton visited with his brother and wife.

The W.M.U. met at the Gause Baptist Church September 19, with 8 members present. After the opening prayer and minutes read and approved the lessons "Students in the Phillipines" and "Hospital at Mati", on the island of Mindanao were presented. Those taking part were Mmse. Olinger, Bland, Rains, Lange, Alexander and Bundrick. The prayer calender for missionaries birthdays was read by Mrs. Ditto, chairman, and prayer for these was given by Mrs. Bland. The closing prayer was given by Mrs. Lange.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Kirk over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kirk of El Campo and Mr. and Mrs. Melton Spinks of Kilgore.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown and Tammy recently visited in Comfort with relatives including her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Krauter. Mr. Krauter is a patient in the hospital where he had gall bladder surgery. This past Thursday the Browns were in Madisonville for the funeral of his uncle, Luke Brown.

Mr. J. H. (Harvey) Ford celebrated his 75th birthday Sunday. Those who celebrated the occasion with him and his wife Annie included family members, Mr. and Mrs. Micheal D. Young, Mrs. Jimmy Kopriva and Amy, Mrs. Opal Young, all of Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ray Young Jr. and Lisa and Marvin Ray III of Buckholts, Wayne Kerns and daughter Charmin of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Young and Mrs. Artie Simmons and Eddy Simmons of Gause. Friends of Mr. Ford's Homer Mowdy of Rockdale, "Buffalo" Angell and Mr. Condray of Cameron can down and entertained with music playing.

The annual Hardcastle family reunion and birthday celebration was held at the home of Mrs. Anna Mae Hardcastle Ely Sunday. Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Ely, Denice and Shawn, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Slay and Cheryl, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carmichael and Tristan of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Timmons, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hardcastle and Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Earl Hardcastle Donna, Billy Paul and Curtis of Angleton, Martha Thornton and Robert Ashton of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Van de Weghe, Carla, Yvonne and Stephanie of Mexia.

CAMERON, TEXAS 76520

*Note: Warranty Period Shown is based on Normal Passenger Car Service.

Most powerful.
The Atlas Worry-Free Battery is our most powerful battery line...with even higher cold cranking performance than the PHD Premium Power Battery. Faster and longer cranking power for dependable starts in hot or cold climates.

Needs no water.
Factory-sealed, wet-charged and tested, the Worry-Free Battery requires neither activation nor the addition of water or acid—at the time of sale or during its normal underhood service life.

More electrolyte above plates.
By enclosing each positive plate in envelope separators to trap the active material that might flake off during service, the Atlas Worry-Free plate elements can be placed closer to the bottom of the case. Lowering the plates in this manner increases the amount of liquid electrolyte above the plates, to help ensure that no filling will be required during the battery's normal underhood service life.

Less overcharging.
The Worry-Free Battery accepts less current than a conventional antimonial lead battery as it nears the full charge state. And because it is much less apt to overcharge, both gassing and water loss are reduced. This is especially important in long mileage driving, and becomes even more important as the battery gets older.

Longer shelf life.
The Atlas Worry-Free Battery is less susceptible to self-discharge than a standard battery with antimony lead grids—on the shelf or in a car that stands inactive for a long period of time. Under normal storage conditions (temperatures of 80°F or less) the Worry-Free Battery can be stored for 12 months from the date of manufacture (refer to carton for date) without the need for charging. When storage time reaches the one-year period, the Worry-Free Battery should be tested with a load tester or volt meter and recharged if necessary.

Less corrosion.
Plate grids constructed of an alloy of calcium and lead, rather than the antimony-lead grids common in conventional batteries, make the Worry-Free Battery less susceptible to corrosion.

And reduced gassing means less acid and moisture on top of the battery to cause corrosion problems at the terminals. In the top of the battery, flush with the top surface, flame retardant venting helps diffuse the small amount of gas that is generated by the Worry-Free Battery.
